Oscar returns tonight with Let's Sing Out

"Let's Sing Out", the nationwide college sing-song program on CTV will visit campus once again tonight.

Broadcast over CFCF Channel 12 in Montreal, the singalong will feature the Modern Folk Quartet, Jim & Jean, Tom Rush, Barbara Dane, Le Quatre-Vingt (a local Montreal group) and, of course, host Oscar Brand.

The show is set for 8 pm tonight in the Union Ballroom and will continue until 10. Tickets are obtainable at the Union Box Office starting at 11 am this morning. The tickets are free, but as there are only 500, it is first come, first served.

"Let's Sing Out", staged in Redpath Hall last year, presented Nancy Ames and John White. Ed Boulter is this year's special coordinator.

"Let's Sing Out" was televised across Canada during the past year doing a show a week from colleges and universities all over the nation.

The two-hour hootenany usually provides material for three separate shows, which are televised at different times during the year's run of the programme.

Students attending the show must be on time as they will not be allowed to enter once the cameras have started the take.

Georgian editor suspended

by W. G. FALLS

Alex Shenfield, Editor-in-Chief of the Georgian, the student newspaper of Sir George Williams University, was suspended from office Wednesday for the remainder of the publishing year.

The Publications Board, a committee of the Students' Undergraduate Society Council responsible for the newspaper, took action against Shenfield for disobeying a directive given by the Board the previous week. In addition, Shenfield breached the Canadian University Press Code of Ethics, which states that "the editor should rectify in print at the first available opportunity all culpable mistakes."

Shenfield deliberately did not attend the Board meeting on Wednesday to plead his case. Upon receipt of the news, he immediately resigned his position.

The Students' Undergraduate Society Council, which also met on Wednesday, announced later in the day that it concurred with the Publications Board on Shenfield's suspension.

The Publications Board made itself custodian of the Georgian, and appointed two of its members as custodial representatives to perform the function of Editor-in-Chief for the rest of the year; Michael Mercer, editor of the campus literary magazine, and Steve Goldberg, editor of the yearbook.

The Editorial Board of the Georgian rejected the principle of custodianship on the statement of the CUP Charter of the Student Press in Canada that "the Canadian student press should be free from pressure by student governments, University authorities, or any external agencies..."

The Editorial Board proposed that one of its members be elected Chairman of the Board to assume the full responsibility of Editor-in-Chief, while not actually using the title.

This suggestion was turned down by the Publications Board, as was a proposal that a certain Editorial Board member be made Editor-in-Chief.

Mercer and Goldberg subsequently presented a statement of editorial policy to the Editorial Board and were accepted as "joint Editor-in-Chief" for the remaining three issues.

The Editorial Board was concerned that as Mercer and Goldberg represent their own publications on the Publications Board, a Georgian representative on the Board could not vote contrary to his "joint Editor-in-Chief", and the Georgian would therefore have no real voice.

This situation was alleviated when Mercer and Goldberg stated their intention of abstaining should a difference of opinion arise.

CHIC "CHICKIE" Here is this year's Carnival Queen Helen "Chickie" Fuhrer soon after the moment of truth on Thursday night. Chickie ran a fowl when asked to pinpoint her immediate reaction to her selection, but she volunteered, "Like any girl I felt terrific." Chickie was surprised by her first official regal duty — a trip to Florida as the guest of Air Canada.

Vallat made new director of Institute

A British legal expert has been appointed Acting Director of the Institute of Air and Space Law.

Sir Francis Aime Vallat, principal legal advisor to the Foreign Office in London since 1960, will assume this post for a one-year period, commencing September 1, 1965. Sir Francis will also hold the position of Visiting Professor in the University's Faculty of Law.

Sir Francis is the fifth head of the Institute, which was founded in 1951, as a centre for graduate study and research in international air law. He succeeds Professor Maxwell Cohen, Q.C., who was appointed Dean of the Faculty of Law on July 1, 1964.

Other heads of the Institute were: Professor John Cobb Cooper, Founding Director, and former legal advisor to the International Air Transport Association; Professor Eugene Pepin, former Director of the Legal Bureau of the International Civil Aviation Organization, and Professor A. Beatty Rosevear, Q.C., former general attorney for Air Canada.

Prior to assuming his present post with the Foreign Office, Sir Francis was its deputy legal advisor from 1954 to 1960, and its assistant legal advisor from 1945 to 1950. He served as legal advisor to the United Kingdom Permanent Delegation to the United Nations from 1950 to 1954.

Educated at University College, Toronto, and Gonville and Caius College, Cambridge, Sir Francis was called to the Bar at Gray's Inn in 1935. He was Assistant Lecturer at Bristol University, 1935-36, and practised at the Bar, London, from 1936 to 1939.

Thaya Batdorf: a painting of an egg

by SUE SWAN

"The function of a painter," said Thaya Batdorf last night at the first of her series of daily art demonstrations to be staged at the Augustana House this week, "is to make visual unity out of visual chaos."

Thaya Batdorf, an American painter who came to Canada in 1952, does not adhere to any particular school of painting. She attempted to explain her philosophy regarding art in a lecture last night termed "Involvement and the eye that sees."

To Thaya Batdorf, visual awareness is the most important aspect of painting.

Plumbers to hold blood drive

The Annual Engineering Blood Drive will be held this Wednesday in the Common Room of the McConnell Engineering Building from 10 am to 6 pm.

The Engineers have set an objective of six hundred pints, and the entire student body is urged to come and give one.

Spokesmen for the Red Cross have repeatedly emphasized that a healthy person can give blood every four months, so all those who bled during Blood Drive in October need not fear doing so again.

As in October, refreshments will be served to all bleeders.

"Everything I see affects my art, whether consciously or unconsciously," she disclosed. She described many of the impressions that remained with her as "veritable hangovers" something left over from the day before. The artist noted that the red bottles and yellow pickles she had seen at Ben's the night before could be cited as examples of this type of artist's hangover.

She told her audience that she was absorbing them as a chaotic group out of which she would try to create a unified whole. At this point, Thaya Batdorf drew a large brown circle on the canvas and confidentially instructed her listeners to call it "The Egg and I." In creating her picture, she maintained that she was making a reality in itself.

"It is my job to continue to make things that are new, to make something that is without meaning concrete, to make something that when looked at proves our existence."

Awareness, according to Thaya Batdorf, entails involvement — a term she clarified as the absorption into the visual, not translating words, but an optical acceptance of what she sees.

She rectified a few misconceptions voiced by members of the group on the purpose of painting, adding that art is a language of its own that cannot be explained in so many words.

"I am not a prophet with a social message to communicate to the world," she revealed.

Nor did the artist say that she painted to express herself. If she wanted to express herself, she would write a poem.

Thaya Batdorf admitted that she was afraid of symbolism. She deemed symbolism undependable since the meanings of many symbols vary within the context of interpretation. She pointed out that white in China symbolizes death, a far different interpretation of the Western concept of the word.

Last night's lecture was the first of the series of Thaya Batdorf's demonstrations to be presented at the Augustana House from Monday to Friday of this week.

Prof. Hall appointed new Institute director

Professor C. Wayne Hall has been appointed Director of the Institute of Education, effective February 15, Dr. H. Rocke Robertson, Principal and Vice-Chancellor, has announced.

He succeeds Professor David C. Munroe, Vice-President of the Parent Commission on Education, who is on partial leave of absence to serve as Vice-Chairman of the Superior Council of Education of the Province of Quebec.

Professor Hall, who has been Acting Director since September 1, 1964, was Associate Director of the Institute from 1961 to 1964, and he has been professor of education since 1949.

The Institute, which comes under the Faculty of Arts and Science, offers undergraduate and graduate degrees in education, and also administers the School for Teachers at Macdonald College and the School of Physical Education. The work of the Institute is carried on at Macdonald and on the Montreal campus.

Professor Hall was supervisor of English for the Protestant schools in the Province of Quebec from 1940-49, and regional inspector for the Department of Education from 1937-40. Previously, he was Principal of Coaticook High School and St. Francis College High School in Richmond, and class teacher in Sherbrooke High School.

In 1960-61 Professor Hall was released from the University on leave of absence to work for the

Professor C. Wayne Hall new Education Institute Director

Canadian Government as technical advisor in education in Nigeria and to serve with UNESCO as member of the commission on the founding of the University of Lagos.

Professor Hall has a M.A. from Bishop's University, and took graduate work at the University of Toronto. He holds the Order of Scholastic Merit, Third Degree.

He is past president of the Provincial Association of Protestant Teachers, Director of the National Council of Teachers of English (American), Vice-President of the Canadian Association of Professors of Education, and a member of the High School Leaving Board, Canadian College of Teachers, the Protestant Central Board of Examiners, and Comité du Plan de Développement des Commissions Scolaires.

"Mirrors" to open tomorrow evening

STAFF FOR THIS ISSUE
Few thanks are due at all tonight. This paper, be it rotten, lousy, or plain bad, is a ME and Sue effort. Excuse me, Mr. Kaboy contributed 92 words and Mr. Gage, 50. Cleo the gallant was demoted to the ISS. Photo: Look at Jack's paper! Sports: Mac and Lawrence, who was "frustrated by lousy page layouts and all that garbage". Let other papers collapse, we have this day our Daily, WILLIAM GEORGE.

The new look

McGill's newest spectator sport drew a capacity audience last Wednesday. Almost 20 interested onlookers crowded into the Board Room to be present at the SEC's deliberations. More are expected this week, and the Club Room has accordingly been booked for the event.

Most of those who attended last week were there because of their interest in the Model Parliament debate, but most remained after that discussion was tabled to listen to debate on the rest of the agenda.

In the past, attendance has usually been limited to those who had a specific interest in something on the agenda, simply because it never occurred to anyone else to turn up. Constitutionally, however, anyone may attend as long as he notifies the president in advance that he would like to attend, and as long as there is enough room.

The range of discussion to which visitors may listen has been widened by the new constitution, which requires that all discussion except that dealing with employees' salaries must be public. Under the old constitution, Council could move into Confidential Session as soon as anything controversial or potentially embarrassing came up.

The realization that interested students may attend Council meetings may be one of the most important by-products of last week's session. Official minutes and Daily reports are unable to provide complete details of what said what during the average eight-hour session. Students who are interested in knowing both sides of the issues and in offering specific guidance to their representatives will find it valuable to attend a meeting occasionally.

If enough of them do, the representative nature of the Students' Council will be enhanced and the quality of representation will inevitably improve. An increased interest by students-at-large in the workings of student government could result in the return of initiative and control to the student body.

Height of unsophistication

It would be unrealistic and unfair to expect Winter Carnival to appeal to the most sophisticated students at McGill. Experience has shown that what can best be described as good, clean, fairly energetic fun—a day up north, twisting on lower campus, cycling and bed-rolling contests, a hockey game, folk singing, etc.—are what most students are looking for in Winter Carnival, and this year's unprecedented ticket sales confirmed it.

Well and good. Three healthy and uncomplicated days before the grind of studying for final exams sets in is excellent therapy.

We would suggest, however, that bashing up automobiles is not a particularly constructive addition to the Winter Carnival program; for sheer pointlessness, it beats most of the manifestations on campus. If future Carnival planners are seriously interested in helping students vent their hostilities through physical exertion, the impromptu snowball fight between engineers and artists last week might be officially incorporated into the program.

Season's greetings

Carnival is over and the Daily today finds it incumbent upon itself to issue its annual post-Carnival message, in keeping with tradition.

There are only 56 more studying days before exams begin April 20 (14th for Engineers).

Consider yourselves warned.

Statement from the Model Parliament Executive

This statement has been issued to point out the inaccuracies in the article by Messrs. Wolinsky and Winn in the Ivory Tower column last week. These gentlemen have accused Mr. Kubanek, the Chairman of Model Parliament, of assuming the roles of judge, jury, defending and prosecuting lawyers, and interpreter of established rules. However, they themselves have adopted this very role without being sufficiently acquainted with the details.

They have overlooked the fact that Model Parliament is a major function of the SEC and that Mr. Kubanek, as Chairman, was acting as the official representative of that body. He did not criticize the policies or politics of the eighteen who left the House to demonstrate in front of the United States Consulate, but acted on behalf of the SEC. As their representative he objected to that group's attempt to disrupt this SEC function, which had the effect of violating the SEC rules. These rules can be found under Articles 1 and 7 of the Regulations of the University Regarding Student Activities.

Also, it had previously been established by the Model Parliament Committee, consisting of the Executive of Model Parliament and the presidents of the political parties, that it be Mr. Kubanek's prerogative to criticize any party contravening the rules guiding Model Parliament. This is what Mr. Kubanek did only to find himself open to unfounded criticism.

Messrs. Wolinsky and Winn state that Mr. Kubanek "tried and convicted two political parties on the basis of alleged motives, not on the basis of factual evidence". Does a written motion to adjourn the House and reconvene in front of the US Consulate fall under the heading of alleged motives? They also accuse Mr. Kubanek of attributing motives in his statement: "They (the NDP and YCL) had no right to disrupt an SEC function to further their own ends." The parties involved did try to "further their own ends". They attempted to propagate their own point of view, without regard for the functioning of the House and the points of view of the Members of the House, and so, again, Mr. Kubanek has been falsely accused of acting on behalf of "alleged motives".

Messrs. Wolinsky and Winn, not being aware of all the facts, have represented Mr. Kubanek as overstepping his role on two occasions. On the first occasion Mr. Kubanek did in fact consult all the parties involved and then decided not to issue a statement on behalf of either. He was not requested to refrain from intervening at any time. On the second occasion, Mr. Kubanek did not issue a statement to the Daily predicting the fall of the Government, but was overheard when engaged in a private conversation. Unfortunately, this was passed on to the Daily.

Messrs. Wolinsky and Winn go on to say that Mr. Kubanek's statement misrepresented what actually occurred on at least three occasions. They allege that Mr. Kubanek attempted to prevent Mr. Lenihan from having space to reply and thus trying to make the events less clear. This is actually untrue, as Mr. Kubanek himself informed Mr. Lenihan of his intent to issue a statement, and thus Mr. Lenihan was granted equal space without any hindrance. They next accuse Mr. Kubanek of not checking his information regarding the NDP ticket, whereas, in fact, they themselves have not properly checked out the decision taken during the earlier NDP caucus.

Secondly, they say that the sitting was "plagued by disruption" so much so that the Speaker was on his feet much of the time. They have overlooked the fact that the Speaker was on his feet as a result of the proposed motion of adjournment and the confusion that followed.

Thirdly, they have interpreted Mr. Kubanek's phrase — rules and responsibilities of the House — as referring to parliamentary rules only, which would mean that the only rule broken was that of leaving the House while the Speaker was on his feet. They omit the facts stated in the opening paragraph.

Mr. Kubanek is again erroneously quoted to the effect that the only gain of the NDP marchers was to defeat the then Liberal Government. His actual words were: "They came to the session to defeat the Government as quickly as possible without giving it the hearing that they themselves had been given during the first two sessions."

It is stated that Mr. Kubanek was "foisting his conceptions (of Model Parliament) into the hands of political parties". The purpose of Model Parliament is clearly enunciated in its Constitution and Mr. Kubanek attempted to carry out its aims in consultation with all Party leaders under Democratic procedure.

We feel that it is the duty of observers of a function such as Model Parliament to be impartial and properly informed when reporting the workings of such a function. It is unfortunate that Messrs. Wolinsky and Winn, ill-equipped with only second-hand information and fragments of facts, have presented themselves as informed observers of the scene.

We would like to thank Messrs. Wolinsky and Winn for their recommendations, some of which had already been considered for inclusion in this year's report.

Opposes Cro-Magnon Ball

Dear Madam,

It has come to my attention that during the SEC Meeting of February 17, 1965, the budget for a proposed Cro-Magnon Ball was approved. To be held in the Student Union, and to feature free beer and refreshments, this function certainly has all the potential ascribed to it by its proponents. "The greatest blast in McGill's history", as it is described by one of its supporters, it would undoubtedly be the first and last Cro-Magnon Ball ever to be held.

Billed as a farewell party to the old Students' Union, this party could well turn into a "destruct party" for the building. Given the limitations upon the level of responsibility of many of the sober students on this campus, I dread to think of the potential havoc to be wrought by a few hundred, or even as many as a thousand of these students exposed to a free flowing fountain of beer. I personally doubt that the SEC sufficiently considered the possible outcome of this plan. We have recently read in a letter to you that there are frequent acts of petty vandalism committed in the Union; is it sensible to assume that an assembly of drinking students will consciously refrain from collecting souvenirs and leaving their "mark" on the old Union hulk?

I hope the SEC will reopen consideration of this function at its next meeting, and I will formally request that this item be placed on the agenda of the next meeting.

I am as eager and ready to enjoy a party as anyone, but I frankly oppose the idea of this party because it seems to me an invitation to disaster.

U of M regains Birks Trophy

Pucksters edged 9-0

After a three-year drought the University of Montreal Carabins decisively regained the Birks' Trophy, smashing the Redmen 9-0 on Thursday night. The Carabins had little trouble breaking the Redmen offence and defence and only sensational goaling by Ken Walters kept the score in single figures.

Al Bloomer, suffering from a leg injury, did not play and he was sorely missed on defence. Throughout the game the sharp-passing Carabins were able to work into the clear and shoot at will at Walters. Four goals came as the Carabins set up men, unchecked, in front.

Although they were able to work the puck into the Montreal zone, the Redmen could not cope with the tight U of M defence. The Carabins covered well in front and McGill managed only a couple of dangerous shots.

Walters provided the only consolation for the frustrated Redmen fans. After making sparkling saves all evening, notably on three clear breakaways, he left his cage several times as the game neared its end. At one point he carried the puck across the McGill blue line and it appeared that he was ready to make a rush as he did earlier this season. However, as the Carabins moved in on him, he was forced to pass off.

The game did not provide the spirited play of years past. There were no real fights and the checking was kept clean and close. The only threat of an outbreak came when Dave Flam was charged behind the Carabin goal and had to be helped from the ice. The linesmen and referee moved in quickly and nothing developed.

The Birks' Trophy game ended the most disastrous and frustrating season for the Redmen in years. Several of this year's players will be returning next year along with some promising intermediates up from the Indians.

Coach Dave Copp has talked to several prospective players and expects that a few of them will attend McGill next year and give him an OQAA contender. But the fact remains that the Redmen have a major rebuilding problem on their hands.

Squaws dumped twice in OQAA ice tourney

In the first two games of the Women's Intercollegiate Hockey Tournament, the Redwomen were defeated by Queen's and Toronto, both by 5-1 scores.

The Squaws held Queen's in check for the first two periods but fell apart in the final frame and allowed the Tricolour to ram in three unanswered markers. All three tallies came on breakaways as the Squaws pressed unsuccessfully for the equalizer. The trio of Snyder, Drysdale, and Hollingworth accounted for the lone Squaw goal.

The Toronto encounter was a complete reversal of the Queen's affair. The well-organized Blues struck for two goals in the opening minute and from then on kept the Squaws well in check. Play was even for the remainder of the contest as the Squaws could not dent the Blues' solid defence though at times they tested the Toronto goalie with some wicked shots.

All is not lost, since the Squaws have a chance to redeem themselves next weekend at Hamilton. There they will meet McMaster, Guelph, and Western in the final of the two-part tournament.

Swimmers prep for big meet

by JIM COUPER
CIAU News

Intercollegiate swimmers throughout the country are putting extra effort into every stroke as they battle for a chance to enter the CIAU National Championship, to be held at Western, March 12 and 13.

McGill, of the Ontario-Quebec division, boasts Richard Pound, Ross McMahon, Bill Peers, Bob Bourne and "Bulldog" Haites, all of whom have clocked remarkable times.

The University of Toronto team, in the same division, is again a formidable power. The freestyle and medley relay team of Tom Verth, Mike Chappell, Graeme Barber and Theo Van Ryn have put in times mere tenths of a second off Canadian records.

Daily cops week-end doubleheader

by JOHN SKINNER

Students arise! Your government has a weak backfield.

Yes, sports fans, the SEC has once again proved its inefficiency... at football. Last Thursday, a vastly superior team of Super-Dailyites (hereafter referred to as Yellowmen) outplayed, outfought and outcheated the SEC's collection of incapable, indecisive and inferior athletes (sic) who will be hereafter referred to as Losers.

The Yellowmen fought to a well-earned 6-0 victory on a sparkling touchdown by Ian "Mangler" McLean on a pass from ace QB "Rhythm" McFarlane and sharp defensive work by "Buff" Gage, Q. Alboim and friends Bill Hersh and Herbie Aronoff.

The Super-Ds benefitted from a refreshing pre-game "warm-up" at one of the local "gyms" and once they started playing, they never looked back (they were having enough trouble looking forward).

The Toilet Bowl secured for the hundredth straight year, the weary Yellowmen returned to the downstairs office where a post-game "warm-up" was held under the direction of coach Jim "Spread" Smith who was heard to remark as he sipped victory champagne from the coveted trophy, "Arrggh!"

The Yellowmen go off in search of their 101st Toilet Bowl next year with a new coach, still to be named. The staff wishes also to express its gratitude to referees Bill Hersh and "Honest" Herb Aronoff. You called a great game, fellas.

AND AGAIN...

Later on, the same night, the big Yellow squad proved itself undaunted by the ice and snow of the Toilet Bowl as it took to the rink against Radio McGill in a televised hockey game.

Coach Smith, having recovered from the Toilet Bowl victory champagne, sent into the chaos his big first line of Derek "Carnival" Crain, Enn "The Rod" Raudsepp and "Rhythm" McFarlane, who combined for two quick goals. The "Rod" notched the first tally on a quick drive from about 15 feet out past the Broadcasters' goalie, who prefers to remain anonymous. Crain's marker came from a scramble in front of the net and put the Yellowmen in front 2-zilch (with apologies to the Scribe).

The Broadcasters struck back with two quick ones from a ringer they had imported from the city champion Loyola High School team. (We don't want to see him next year, fellas, he was too good). But the Yellowmen were not to be stopped. Nearing the end of the last period "Rhythm" let loose a bullet-like slap-shot from the blue line which star winger "Speed" Skinner deflected into the bottom

Something should be said about the Dailyites' goalie, Scribe I. The Immortal Predicamentor played a solid game in nets for the Big Yellow squad and was fooled only twice (in seven shots). The defending team of "Esh" Haltrecht and "Battling" Bea Taylor deserves a lot of credit for their protection of Scribe I (and Gaylord knows he needed it).

Mech Eng take Dow relay race

In one of the most enthusiastic relay races seen in these parts in a long while, the speedy squad from Mechanical Engineering took the Dow Roman Relay Trophy and the three cases of beer that went along with it.

There were eight teams from various divisions of the Engineering Faculty entered and each group was comprised of 14 men and one female. A grueling course made the race very exciting and kept the interest high.

BRAIN DROPS

What's the matter with Old McGill?

Last Thursday evening in the Winter Stadium, before more than 1,500 spectators and hundreds more on closed circuit television, the Redmen hockey team capped off its worst season in history (3-12-1) in succumbing to the visiting University of Montreal Carabins by a 9-0 count. The loss, although not uncommon for the hapless pucksters this year seems to indicate the futility of athletics at McGill when observed against a background of defeats suffered by other McGill teams.

The Senior basketball team, which won the Eastern Division of the OQAA League three years ago, has had difficulty keeping out of the cellar since that time. The football team suffered a disappointing season as did the rugger, tennis, squash, track, and harrier teams. The Indian hockey team, the training ground for future Redmen stars crawled through the season just ended with an 0-10 record. We could go on but it would be like kicking a man when he is down.

McGill possesses the finest athletic facilities in the country in its giant gymnasium, Molson Stadium, its Winter Stadium, and swimming pool. But these are sitting in disuse.

A university the size of ours only managed to attract some sixty varsity football candidates, twenty-five Redmen hockey hopefuls, sometimes fielded just ten men in soccer, could not scrape up a track or harrier team. Why are we quickly becoming the pushovers of Intercollegiate athletics? And there appears to be no end to these problems in sight — at least not under the present regime.

What good is the Department of Athletics when it does not take steps to improve the rotten athletic atmosphere, looks for excuses when the answers lie before their eyes? Perhaps the Athletics Board, if it honestly wishes to achieve the purposes for which it was created, should reassess the present position of athletics at McGill and take suitable steps to ensure that things improve.
